Project Summary

Title:

Training teacher trainers in European Holocaust History

Provide a concise summary of the objectives and content of the project, why it is needed, and how it aligns with the aims and objectives of the Grant Programme under which you are applying

The United States Embassy in Vilnius, Lithuania, in cooperation with partners including the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, the Lithuanian Ministry of Education and the Vilna Gaon State Jewish Museum, will develop a three-year program involving the design and implementation of three one-week seminars on the teaching of the Holocaust in Europe for Lithuanian educators. The first year would focus exclusively on Vilnius University and the Vilnius Pedagogical University. In the second and third years the program would expand to include Siauliai Pedagogical University, Vytautas Magnus University in Kaunas and Klaipeda University. These seminars would be specifically targeted for those who train teachers of history and/or literature.

This project aligns with the aims and objectives of the grant program. It will help Lithuania create a sustainable structure for Holocaust education by providing necessary skills and resources to those who will, year after year, pass the knowledge along to new cadres of schoolteachers. This will improve Holocaust education in Lithuania by making more widely available broader knowledge of the unique character of the Holocaust and its role in European history as well as its repercussions that deeply influence human-rights education, policies and practices in today's world.

List the specific objectives of the project (in bullet points) and why it's needed

Participants in the program, who will be trainers of teachers, will:

- Better understand the concept of "The Holocaust as European History" as opposed to the concept of the "The Holocaust in Lithuania."
- Acquire accurate and up-to-date information about the Holocaust as it unfolded in Europe and in Lithuania.
- Acquire basic knowledge in the racial, ideological worldview of the perpetrators of the Holocaust, including not only the Germans but their collaborators as well.
- Obtain specific knowledge of aspects of the Holocaust in Lithuania by visits to sites such as the Memorial to the Murdered Jews of Lithuania at Ponar (Panieri Woods), the Vilna Gaon Jewish State Museum and other sites.
- Obtain a wider knowledge of aspects of the Holocaust in Europe by visiting Auschwitz/Birkenau and Krakow in Poland.

The points above are important because current Holocaust education in Lithuania focuses almost entirely on Lithuanian events, causes and consequences and does not adequately provide a wider view of the Holocaust in Europe and how the Holocaust in Lithuania fits into that larger picture.

In addition, participants will:

- Learn about the variety of pedagogical methods associated with this subject.
- Gain knowledge of the use of electronic resources associated with the Holocaust as teaching tools.
- Acquire the skills necessary to make the connection between the Holocaust and contemporary human rights education.

The points above are important because the trainers (and then the educators they teach) will develop a larger repertoire of teaching skills and a larger bank of resources, as well as the knowledge and ability necessary to make Holocaust education relevant to the lives of those they are trying to teach.

List the expected results and effects of the project (in bullet points)

- Development of confident, competent teacher trainers with the skills to design and implement a meaningful series of lessons on the Holocaust for future history and/or literature educators.
- As those teacher trainer pass their knowledge and skills on to secondary-school teachers who will use them in their classrooms, Lithuanian youth will develop a clearer and more thorough knowledge of the Holocaust and its causes.

Describe the contribution of your project to Holocaust education, remembrance and/or research

This project will improve Holocaust education in Lithuania by making more widely available -- from trainers to teachers to their students for years to come -- broader knowledge of the unique character of the Holocaust and its role in European history as well as its repercussions that deeply influence human-rights education, policies and practices in today's world.

Describe the experience your organization has had in conducting similar projects. Upload any documentation or proof of this experience in the attachments section of the application

The American Embassy in Lithuania every year organizes seminars, lectures, exhibitions and other educational and cultural events in Vilnius and across the country. Each year the Embassy also sponsors the participation of about 25 Lithuanians in educational programs, including exchange programs. Thousands of Lithuanians use the educational materials and other resources available at the Embassy's American Center in Vilnius and the American Corners located in public libraries in other Lithuanian cities.

The ITF requires recipients of grants to submit annual financial and operational reports. Templates for narrative reports will be provided. Grant recipients are required to compile their own projected and final budget in excel format. To demonstrate that you will be able to fulfill this requirement*a. Describe your current internal tools and mechanisms for monitoring and evaluation of projects*b. List the personnel responsible for monitoring and evaluation of the proposed

a. All proposed projects are evaluated to determine whether the proposal meets our mission goals, targets the correct audience, has reasonable costs, uses acceptable materials, involves cost-sharing and is sustainable.

Project monitoring includes regular site visits , analysis of programmatic and financial reports and review of participant feedback.

When the Embassy oversees a project using grant funds, the Recipient is required to submit quarterly program and financial reports within a month of the end of each quarter. A final certified financial report and program report must be submitted to the Grants or Principal Officer within 90 days after the award period end date.

After completion projects are regularly reviewed and evaluated to determine their effectiveness and efficiency in reaching goals, and lessons-learned exercises help us to incorporate best practices for future activities.

b. The personnel responsible for monitoring and evaluation of the proposed project will be the Management Officer of the Embassy, the grants officer in the public affairs section and an officer in the political section of the Embassy. Because diplomats' assignment last only a few years, definite names cannot at this point be attached to the application. Partner organizations will be invited and encouraged to participate in monitoring and evaluation of all aspects of project programming.
